Chamber wants out of local winter rec

By ALISON ALOISIO

After an idea to provide a sledding hill at the Bethel Airport fell through, the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce last week said the chamber will get out of the business of creating winter recreation for Bethel residents.

At a Bethel selectmen's meeting last month, an idea was floated to hold this year's ski/snowboard Railjam at the airport, and then allow the snow hill built for that purpose to be used afterward for sledding for area children.

But at last week's board meeting Town Manager Jim Doar said the Airport Authority is recommending against using the airport "for any winterfest recreational activities."

The biggest worry for him, he said, "is the unsupervised sledding." He said there could be problems such as debris on the runway or people climbing on airplanes.

Selectman Don Bennett expressed frustration that efforts to provide recreation often "come down to liability."

BACC Executive Director Robin Zinchuk, who attended the meeting, said the chamber would likely find another site for the Railjam, which has its own insurance.

Local agents field 'Obamacare' questions

By ALISON ALOISIO

With the controversial "Obamacare" rolling out - or trying to - this month, Bethel-area health insurance agents have been getting plenty of questions.

Policies obtained under the Affordable Care Act go into effect Jan. 1. People can sign up online at healthcare.gov, but continuing problems with the website have left many frustrated.

Last Thursday about 30 people turned out to hear a real person - W.J. Wheeler Co.'s Mike Newsom - do a presentation at Telstar on health insurance options.

Newsom held a similar event in the South Paris area, with about 50 people attending.

"The turnout has been great," he said.

Newsom provides information and then encourages people to get their policies through him, which he said comes at no additional cost to the consumer.

The Telstar group, according to a show of hands, was comprised mostly of people who currently have individual plans, with representation as well from uninsured people and those who have (or had) employers offering insurance. Many were middle-aged, with some younger people mixed in.

During the 90-minute meeting, Newsom led them through the basic structure of ACA - the individual mandate to buy insurance, tied with guaranteed issue and no denial of coverage for a period of time for pre-existing conditions; the timetable for enrollment; penalties for not enrolling; eligibility for federal

Roadside Spring may need fence

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Roadside Spring in Woodstock has been closed for the past month because of failed water quality tests, and town officials are concerned about possible effects of human waste.

A test in the third week of September came back positive for coliform bacteria, Town Manager Vern Maxfield said.

The town had to test the water five successive times in a month and get a clean result each time in order to reopen.

Initially, he said, "We did not get that."

The next step was to flush the system and bleach it, followed by another round of testing.

That round started Oct. 11.

In the meantime spring users were told they could get clean drinking water from a hose at the Wood-

Woodstock's state valuation jumps

By ALISON ALOISIO

"It could have been far worse," said Woodstock Town Manager Vern Maxfield.

Area towns recently received their proposed state valuations, and Woodstock, home to the two-year-old Spruce Mountain wind project, jumped about 20 percent this year.

It takes two years for new development to be reflected in state valuation calculations.

The town's valuation now stands at nearly $200 million.

In SAD 44 the valuations are used to determine a town's local share in the annual school budget.

Of seven Bethel area towns, four went up in valuation from last year and three down. Listed following are the 2013 valuations, followed by the proposed 2014, for each town:

Andover,	$79,250,000,
/ $77,200,000;
Bethel,	$435,500,000

Newry plans hearing on roadwork

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry will hold an informal public hearing Nov. 19 on a proposal to reconstruct a 1,200-foot stretch of the outer Sunday River Road.

Selectmen are considering a proposal from Main-Land Development Consultants for the estimated $300,000 project.

Main-Land owner/president Bob Berry and project manager Rick Dunton met with the board recently to discuss options for the stretch of road near the Nordic Knoll subdivision and Letter S swimming hole.

Berry said the road and a large culvert are in poor condition.

A full project would include such steps as surveying and mapping the road, designing the reconstruction, and administering the bid process and the construction.

Berry said the road design could provide for widening the swimming parking area next to the Sunday River somewhat so cars can get off the road.

Selectmen said last week they believe people with interest in that section of road should have a chance to pro-

SCIENTIFIC OBSERVATION - Fifth-graders from the Crescent Park Elementary School recently visited the Gulf of Maine Research Institute in Portland. The students handled live lobsters, observed lobsters and cod in a tank, look at plankton under a microscope, and took part in a simulated fishing game. During all of the activities, the students video recorded their conclusions of their observations. The scientific method is stressed in each activity. Here, Steven Alanskas looks at copepods under the microscope. GMRI and grants from Norway Savings Bank, TD Bank in Portland and People's United Community Foundation in Connecticut help sponsor 5th and 6th graders all over Maine.

HOMECOMING THANKS

To the Editor:

On behalf of Telstar High School's Student Council and especially from our students and staff members, I wish to extend our appreciation to those individuals and community groups for their assistance with the 2013 Telstar High School Homecoming Parade and Bonfire festivities on Thursday, October 3, 2013.

Special thanks to the Bethel Fire Department and Chief Mike Jodrey for providing the fire station's parking and driveway for the line up of our Homecoming floats and start of the parade, and especially for monitoring the bonfire throughout the festivities.

Our gratitude to the Oxford County Sheriff's Office for providing deputy sheriffs to escort the Homecoming Parade, monitor crowds around the bonfire and overall supportive presence during Homecoming festivities.

A note of thanks to Savage Contracting for their continual support of donating wood for the Homecoming Bonfire. It's most impressive for the parade procession to see the bonfire glowing upon their approach to the Bethel Station snowman field site.

Also, special appreciation to SAD 44 Building and Grounds Maintenance members Ron Deegan and Clyde Crockett for providing a generator, electrical cords for lighting and sound, as well as delivery and set up of tables for student activities' booth sales.

Special thanks to Bethel Station partner/owner Mr. Ron Goglia for his continual support providing Telstar High School's Student Council the use of "the snowman field" for the annual Homecoming Bonfire and student activities' booths.

School and community spirit was evident by the number of business members, patrons and homeowners along the parade route, who shared their enthusiasm by waving, applauding and shouting compliments to the Telstar High School Homecoming parade proceeded down Main Street.

Thank you all for joining us in promoting positive spirit and pride of Telstar High School.

ON SHUTDOWNS AND CEILINGS

To the Editor:

Unfortunately today a lot of "stuff" gets thrown out there, and people who don't know better just accept it as fact. Here's the facts.

1. Congress controls the purse strings. That means they decide what to spend and when to spend it. The Debt Ceiling does not stop them from spending one trillion dollars more today than last year. It merely says that they cannot pay the debt once it's incurred without raising the limit. It's the stupidest of laws and like you buying a new car on credit this year and then next year deciding you don't want to spend that much. If Republicans were REALLY against debt they'd institute a SPENDING Ceiling. They never have and never will.

2. When Congress reaches the end of its funds to pay its bills it either has to raise revenues or increase debt. Constitutionally there is no way around that since Amendment 14, Section 4 of the Constitution demands that our debts shall not be questioned. But never forget that it was Congress that ran up those debts to begin with. All of them. The President doesn't have the authority to increase one dollar of spending. That has to be authorized by the Congress.

3. Closing the government to 'kill Obamacare' might have made great Fox News talking points, but the people who live in the real world, including many Senatorial and House Republicans admitted all along that it was a farce and could never happen. Defunding it was dead as well because the law came with its own funding guaranteed like Medicare which also did not shut down.

4. The President didn't close the government. He has no power under the Constitution to do so. He can shout at Congress for all he's worth, and Congress can keep paying itself and keep the government open. The Republicans did this. Ask John McCain or Susan Collins. It is more than hypocritical to shut down the government, then rush outside to insult National Park Rangers who are only trying to do the job YOU hired them to do (at no pay) and claim that the closed monuments are THEIR fault. Most of the veterans there weren't that stupid.

You can fool some of the people some of the time. But the country is gradually coming out of its four-year stupor. The Tea Party has done us all a favor by teaching us a hard lesson. When the pendulum swings way too far right bad things happen. Propaganda trumps Journalism, belief trumps evidence, and we begin to have laws written or repealed not by majority vote but by blackmail. If the situation had been reversed and Democrats shut down the government until a law was passed making assault rifles illegal would that be all right? For years now the Right has made open war on women, minorities, the poor, and even the middle class. Now their chickens will come home to roost.

TWENTY-FOUR BILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF SPITE

To the Editor:

In regard to Richard Grover's "A Shameful Day for Our Government" presentation: I have to agree with Mr. Grover that the recent governmental shut down was indeed a shameful interlude in the realm of political and governmental intercourse. It is my concern that when a person resorts to the toxic tabloid media to form one's opinions, draw one's conclusions and to make one's judgments it could result in that person being grossly amiss in their thinking.

The event that Mr. Grover mentioned in his presentation was when a group of WWII Veterans at the WWII memorial site were approached and confronted by Ted Cruz, the prime architect of the governmental shutdown. An eloquently articulate political confidence artist, who had the unmitigated hypocritical audacity to look these veterans in the eye and strive to blame the President of the United States for that which he himself was responsible for. All the ensuing unbecoming consequences mentioned in Mr. Grover's presentation can be laid at the doorstep of the Tea Party element that has infested and dominated what might otherwise possibly be a more viable and prudently conservative Republican Party.

The sixteen days of the Tea Party initiated shutdown was dedicated not to resolve any governmental impropriety but instead became an apparent 24 billion dollar spiteful vendetta directed against this nation's first African American President. From the instant President Obama took office the prime stated goal of the Republican establishment was not to govern in the best interest of the nation but to make this person a one term President. An endeavor which proved to be an exercise in futility and Obama was elected for a second term. During Obama's second term the Republicans resorted to governmental obstructionism and then to political extortion. This also proved to do nothing more than to further demean the credibility of the Republican endeavor.

GEMS AUCTION

To the Editor:

The Oxford County Gem and Mineral Association is having an auction on Nov. 1 at 7:30 in the Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School. All proceeds go to Christmas for Kids programs in the Bethel and Norway area. Last year club members raised over $500.

This year, we are opening the auction up to the public.

This auction is a great chance for rock hounds to get some nice stuff and help out local children at the same time.

We will also accept donations to be auctioned off. Call me at 665-2607 or Dennis at 665-2759 for more information.

'What was your most difficult problem?'

If the house were really going to burn down, it would be impossible to save much. What was really choice and worth saving?

No one thing seemed special. Everything for furniture had a bit of the history of our lives. The Bingham bureau was in the room where the fire started; it might already be gone. We had bought it in a shop back in the days when we hauled long logs, choice yellow birch for veneer wood, from Rangeley to Bingham on the Kennebec. I had ridden in the cab with B.B., half terrified by the lurching load of logs behind us, following the Arnold trail towards Quebec...The Methodist sofa, originally bought to fill in a gap at Brick End caused by relatives always appearing and announcing that great aunt so-and-so had promised them this or that...the cherry chest of drawers I had spent one winter refinishing...My clothes; probably the fire was already in that closet. I looked down to see what I was wearing: my oldest wool pants, the indispensable L.L. Bean boots, my Hudson Bay coat, its white already spattered with yellowish blotches from smoke and water. I looked up at the sky. On a still-standing part of the roof sat a white dove; we had never seen one on the place (and never did again). Was it an omen of good or a reminder that I was only thinking about myself and worldly possessions? Beside me appeared a stricken-faced Dotti. She had planned to come for a ride, heard about the fire so walked up. "Sandy is all right," I told her. "The horses have been in the pasture all the time and after the first commotion of the fire trucks, haven't paid any attention to the fire at all."

"What could I take out to help you save some things?" she asked. "Nothing," said I. "Where would we put it if we did move it?"

But she went in and salvaged some china from the dining room closet just before the firemen, listening again, bashed another hole and found more fire inside. I stayed outside, thinking it was the time to test if all the words, words, words so carelessly spoken about too much emphasis upon worldly goods was real belief. The sun was going down and it was cold; I felt desperately weary. I went inside. The kitchen was full of smoke, mud, and furniture piled up, but the gas stove was working. I made some coffee, used the dishpan for a tray and carried cups to the firemen. Miraculously, by their judicious use of just one tank of water, the fire was out.

Upstairs men were throwing blackened rafter ends, lathes, chunks of plaster out of the southwest room window. Downstairs they were tossing similar debris from the study window. Someone was running a generator-powered vacuum cleaner sopping up water. Others unloaded the things we had put in the truck body and carried them to the barn attic. Our outside walls were all standing. Suddenly everyone was gone...

We opened the damper and built a fire in the black kitchen stove for a bit of needed heat. We could look up through two stories and see the sky. Then Dotti and I went on a tour. Where B.B. was I never knew. Everything was a shambles; the dining room ceiling down, inside walls half down, floor canting downhill, the carpeting soggy and ripped. I walked through what once was a built-in closet into the study. The ceiling and inside walls were down here (I winced for the first time at the piles of damaged books), the pantry ceiling down. I opened the door to the big storage space behind the cellar stairs and quickly shut it. Within, that ceiling down, chunks of plaster, blackened lathes swam about amid yellow, muddy water, filled vases, tins of soup, what once were boxes of apricots and raisins. The front stairs were standing and we slogged over the muddy carpet topside. The hall ceiling was down, and I wisely did not open the door to the storage cupboard under the eaves. In the southwest room the ceiling was down, the floor was up and standing as firm as ever among the ruins of the chimney. The windows were black as night. It was impossible to see the condition of the furniture pushed against the outside wall. Into the bathroom the ceiling was down, the inside walls down, the floor half gone. Overall, the smell of acrid smoke; Dante's trip to the lower inferno seemed a reality.

My mind raced. We had once had some magic words for difficult situations. Where were they? Then I remembered. When we were adventuring and situations were not the most desirable, we would smile and say, "Well, things will be worse than this up in the Khyber Pass" (a place we never reached). After we came to live on Celladore, we said, "Well, things are much worse riding the Manhattan subway in summer." Just now neither jangle seemed uplifting. The Khyber Pass had been looking forward, the Manhattan subway a looking backwards. Were we over the invisible divide into middle age? Dotti just stood and looked so sad that I felt sorry for her. "After all," I said, "the two ends of the house are intact. It's only the middle section that is ruined; so let us begin." I gathered an armload of bath towels and some bedspreads and passed them to her, asking her to take them down and launder them in the dormitory laundromat.

She agreed that insurance and liability have generally been a problem over the years as the chamber has organized winter activities.

She asked the town to take on responsibility for winter recreation for its residents.

"I just wanted to let you know that I think the Chamber is out of the business of creating sledding and skating and those kinds of things for the citizens of the town, and I apologize for that," she said, "but it is just too hard. It's too expensive."

"We need to continue to focus on doing things that are going to help the businesses, because they're the folks that are the ones that are our constituents."

"All those kids and families that enjoyed the sledding hill last year [at Festival Plaza] will be disappointed, and I am sure the chamber is going to get flak again for not creating a sledding hill, just like we got all kinds of flak for not flooding the skating rink [at the same location], when in fact I do not believe that is the job of a chamber of commerce."

"I do believe it is the job of the town to create some kind of fun activities for its citizens to the degree you're able to have the resources to devote to it."

A report by the town's Ad Hoc Recreation Facilities Committee presented to selectmen last week included an ice rink on a list of possible recreational resources for the town in the future.

Selectmen noted the report also included a recommendation for a town recreation director, a position that might aid in creating winter activities.

Airport lounge donated In other airport-related business last week, selectmen approved donating the "pilots lounge" at the airport to Telstar High School for use as a snack shack.

"I wanted to trade it for Ethel Bisbee," quipped selectman Don Bennett, referring to the town's request to SAD 44 to give the Ethel Bisbee School building to the town.

AGENTS

subsidies for individual/family plans (determined by income); maximum premium payments; and out-of-pocket expenses.

He also described the ACA's requirements and incentives for businesses to offer insurance to employees.

Individual plans

Drawing many questions was the ACA's cap on how much individuals or families would be required to pay toward annual premium costs, and toward annual out-of-pocket expenses.

He said some people currently on an individual plan could see their premium costs go down, while others would go up. Because of new requirements to provide expanded coverage, people who currently have high-deductible plans will be "forced into better coverage."

Maximum out-of-pocket amounts can vary, but would never be more than $6,350 per individual, Newsom said.

He noted some features of the ACA that he said would leave his listeners "shaking their heads."

One was the case of a family that makes barely over the limit for a subsidy and is not eligible. The abrupt cut-off of subsidies creates an incentive not to earn just over the limit, he said.

Another was the effect of Maine's refusal to expand Medicaid as part of the ACA. For states that expand it, people making under $11,490 would be eligible for Medicaid and would not need to seek private insurance. Those making more, and meeting other income and household guidelines, would be eligible for a subsidy.

But because Maine chose not to expand, the lowest income people are not eligible for any subsidy and would therefore have to pay the full premium price, while those making more get help paying the premium.

The people below $11,490 would not be required to buy insurance, however, and could still get charity care at hospitals, Newsom said.

"Every hospital administrator I talk to wishes they would expand [Medicaid]," he said, on the theory that "something is better than nothing."

Some people at the meeting with variable income wondered about the requirement to estimate their income, in order to determine if they are eligible for a subsidy.

Newsom said the estimate must be done for each year. People in the lowest income group who overestimate, or others who underestimate, could end up having to pay back the subsidy amount at tax time.

Newsom also fielded questions about people who get coverage for themselves through their employer but must pay the entire premiums for family members, if they add them to the employer's group plan.

He said family members who are eligible for such coverage, but for whom the premium is too high to pay, would be ineligible for federal subsidies under the individual plan. So if the family would otherwise be eligible for a subsidy, they would be better off if the employer didn't offer coverage to the employee's dependents, he said. (However, if the family is not subsidy-eligible, then the dependents are better off getting coverage through the employer, if affordable, because those premiums are tax deductible, whereas individual premiums are not.)

Bankruptcy, website Newsom said that currently, medical costs are the leading reason for bankruptcy filings in the U.S. He was asked if he believed that would change with the new $6,350 out-of-pocket annual maximum.

"My guess is it will have an impact but will not eradicate it," he said, noting for some people that maximum figure would still help drive them to declare bankruptcy.

As for the difficulty enrolling on the federal website, Newsom said he has been encouraging people to fill out a paper application.

He said after the meeting that he has helped about 30 people enroll for insurance so far.

Another local insurance agent, John Rothwell of the Varney Agency, has also been busy.

"I've been getting a lot of inquiries for individual quotes," he said.

AIRPORT PROJECT—Work is underway at the Bethel Airport to construct a new entrance road and a new terminal. The old pilot's lounge has been donated to Telstar High School for use as a snack shack. The project is expected to be done by mid-November, Town Manager Jim Doar said.

FALL CLEANING—The town of Bethel last week drained the swimming pond at Angevine Park and used heavy equipment to clear it of water plants and grass. Here the excavated pond bottom refills with water. Bethel was authorized under its original Department of Environmental Protection permit to clean the pond periodically, Town Manager Jim Doar said.

Ski Depot at Sunday River Saturday Ashton and I visited the people at the new ski shop that have taken over from Jack Frost. The new owner is Ken Jacques who also owns the original Ski-Depot store in Jay. It is a very friendly group — on Saturday we met Elissa Thompson from Albany who was in charge of the front desk and then met Mr. Jacques. Along with him Hakan Adams and Jeff Dewherst were shooting the breeze in front of their lighted fireplace. Jeff Dewherst who is called "Dew" gave us a tour of the lower floor layout where they have the Race Room and Repair/Tuning shop.

The Ken Jacques story of how he and his brother Ron got started in 1996 is on their Ski-Depot website. It seems they started at first in race ski sales and later after success in that line expanded into recreational skis and equipment. They made their first online sale in 1998. Now their entire line of skis and equipment can be ordered online from their www.Ski-Depot.com website.

Ken also brought up the name of John Howe. He and Ron had the privilege of working with John Howe building skis. John was a key part of Head and Atomic teams from the 60's through the 80's and is still called upon frequently by ski companies throughout the industry for his expertise. For several years, the brothers worked with John Howe to build "The Claw", which they say is the precursor to all of the vibration damping systems found in skis today. (From the Ski-depot website).

Ken lives in Livermore Falls and due to his history interest and participation with his home historical society we talked some about when the store's site was home for three generations of the Williamson family. Ken was familiar with the Williamson Land Trust which protects the neighboring land from development. He had already explored the remains of the Williamson barn's stone foundation which abuts the Ski-Depot parking lot. Afterward Ashton and I walked over to the old barn site so that I could get a photo of the cellar hole.

SOLD — This Old House

Friday the former Twitchell homestead property (many know it as the former Douglass place or the White place) had a Sold sign posted on its front lawn. Rebecca Hastings at Mahosuc Realty told me to see Paul Legault as he was one of the buyers. Mr. Legault (Gourmet in a Pinch) told me that he had bought the barn and Arthur and Susan Murphy from Milton, Mass., bought the house. The Legault's and the Murphy's plan to work together to attract wedding business to their new properties. Paul will begin by changing the barn's interior back to its original appearance being that of a historic 19th century barn — a post and beam structure. The other half of this plan is that the Murphy's will join in, for their part, by providing special accommodations for the bridal party.

This "old house" has lots of history behind it. The Twitchell's of Sherborn, Mass., pretty much dominated the early settlement of this "north of the river section of Bethel." Last Twitchell residents were daughters of Samuel and Malvina Twitchell — Susie and Florence who lived there until the middle 1940s.

After Mr. Twitchell's death in 1905, his daughters continued to take boarders into at least the early 1940s. In the 1980s a neighbor of the Twitchells told the story of a long time Twitchell summer boarder by the name of Olive Standish. After the Twitchell's stopped taking boarders, Miss Standish continued to come every summer and stayed at Ladd's Wayside Inn, across the road from the Twitchells. Miss Standish claimed to be a descendant of Capt. Miles Standish. She came every year arriving in May and staying until October until she was 99.

This strand of the Twitchell chronology began with the arrival in 1783 of Ezra Twitchell (1746-1821) and his wife Susanna from Sherborn; they settled where the large white house belonging to Norm and Sylvania Clanton stands today. Their son Thaddeus married Sukey Barker in 1813 and they built the first part of today's "this old house." They had five children, four girls and one boy, Samuel Barker Twitchell. Their daughter, Mary E., married Rev. David Garland; Garland was the only pastor of Mayville's 2nd Congregational Church. The Garland's lived in the house next door to her parents, now owned by Ross and Carol Timberlake.

Thaddeus died in 1860 and apparently at that time, Samuel and Malvina Twitchell moved into this "old house." Prior to that Samuel Twitchell's lived in what appears to be the place now occupied by the stock Fire Station.

On Wednesday, Maxfield said the spring had passed the second round of testing and should be open again by this weekend.

He said a similar problem with water testing happened two years ago, requiring the same series of tests and cleanings.

At last week's selectmen's meeting, Maxfield told the board that human waste had recently been found uphill of the spring, and the bacteria found in the water correlates with that.

He also said spring users have reported seeing people urinating behind the spring.

Selectman Rick Young said a chain link fence was needed behind the spring to deter people.

"That's unfortunate, but true," said Maxfield.

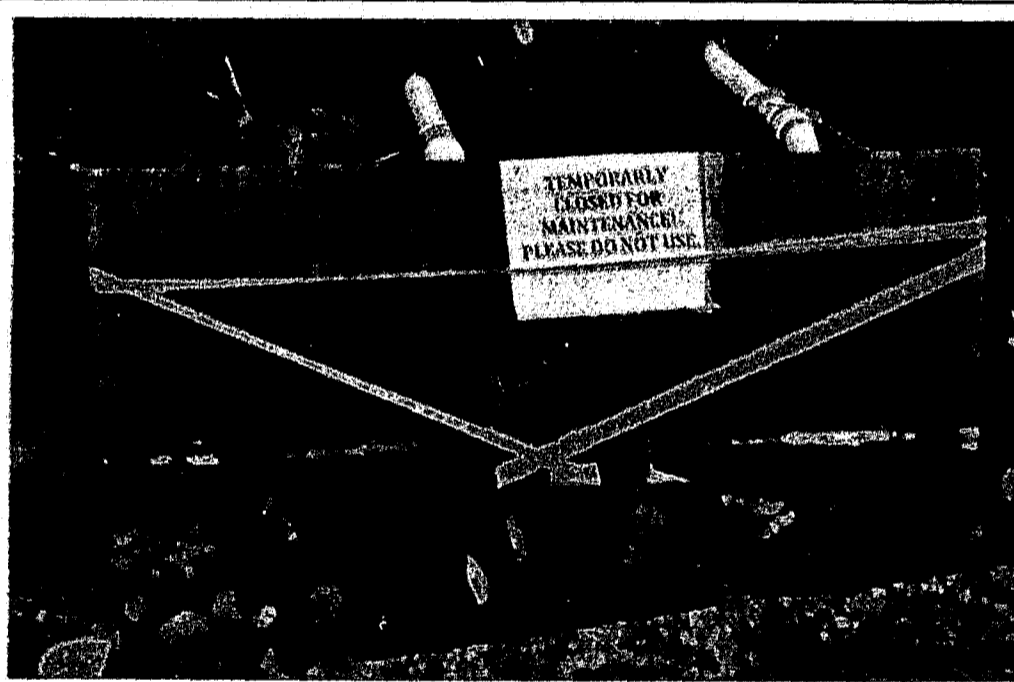

Maxfield said later the board may consider proposing a fence at next year's annual Town Meeting.

$5,000 to Library

In other business last week, Maxfield announced The Whitman Memorial Library has received a gift of $5,000 from the estate of the late Evelyn Bean.

A call has also gone out for people to volunteer for a committee to organize the town's 200th anniversary celebration in 2015.

Woodstock's Roadside Spring has been closed until it can pass water quality testing.

The Way I See It

By Sharon Bouchard

I usually make it a point to not get political in this column. There have been many times in the past when I felt like expounding on the way I see it about many political issues, but have always held my pen in check.

The recent government shutdown has irritated me to the point of where I have decided to let my pen run free.

No matter what one's political persuasion may be, we are all affected in some way when our elected officials act like children having a fight over who will be at bat first. I think it's high time every single one of them gets put in a corner for a very long time out...without pay!

Isn't it amazing how well these elected nincompoops get along when they vote to give themselves a pay raise or increase their benefits? There's no partisanship then.

Perhaps it's time that we the people had a little shutdown of our own. Maybe we the people should shutdown our tax dollars from the government coffers. Imagine if every person in the United States refused to pay another red cent in federal taxes until the elected horses behinds got along and actually accomplished something that really was in our best interest!

I think a total shutdown of tax payers' dollars would get their attention in a hurry. They would get no more pay, no money for their special interest project, no 1.6 billion for aid to Pakistan, no more retreats, resorts or other playtimes at the tax payers' expense.

Perhaps it's time that we the people had a little shutdown of our own.

Okay, I know that's not at all realistic and it would hurt a lot of people other than the elected yahoos, but it would certainly get their attention. Getting their attention is something that we the people need to do. A letter writing campaign to all our elected jokers might be the best route to go. If everyone in the United States wrote to their elected dim-bat telling them the way they see it I think that might get some action. That is assuming that they even read the letters from their constituents.

As you can tell I'm very frustrated with how our government has been behaving and feel a bit helpless to change things. It's a sad time for we the people.

We live in the greatest country in the world and I hate to see it diminished in any way by our own government. There are enough stupid people in this country that make us look bad without having the government do it. It seems to me that the elected nincompoops could do a much better job at representing we the people. They need something to shake them up a bit.

Here's an idea; you write letters telling them the way you see it and I'll write letters really expounding on the way I see it. And, I just might threaten them with a shutdown...at least in the voting booth.

Good Food Store.

Samuel Twitchell's public career included President of Bethel Savings Bank, President of Bethel Creamery Co., Treasurer of the Board of Gould's Academy trustees; in 1868 a member of building committee for Androscoggin River bridge, in 1886 he was a member of a special committee to carry out measures (selecting and purchasing land, etc.) for building Bethel's chair factory, as well as becoming a member of its building committee; he served two terms in Maine Legislature 1879 and 1880 and was elected to town offices numerous times.

In 1881, he expanded the original house in order to accommodate summer boarders. In his book on Oxford County Architecture, Randall Bennett described this change as follows: he moved the original house back from the road and turned it ninety degrees so that it faced south. Then he built the larger Victorian style addition on the site of the original house. At about the same time, he built a "new barn of a cross gabled design."

In July 1888 the barn was discovered on fire and was destroyed. Mr. Twitchell had the barn rebuilt during the late part of 1888 and after haying season in 1889. Well known Bethel builder, Edmund Merrill, was in charge of the timber work. Merrill may also have been the builder of the 1881 addition to the house.

July 1890 news from Bethel reported "Our boarding houses are fast filling - S.B. Twitchell has his house full - click of the mowing machine is heard - barns fast being filled with hay."

As you can see this old house was once home to one of Bethel's foremost "pillars of the community."

Oct. 14 selectmen's meeting This meeting was the first one called after the Board voted to add a Citizens' Forum to the meeting agenda. Bob Laux was the first citizen to speak. He talked about the impact the proposed sewer billing changes would impact on his business property.

The issue for the town is how to pay for the cost of operating its sewerage treatment plant based on a fixed number of customers and the present rate schedule. In the town code, the definition of a dwelling unit which apparently was added in June 2012 says: DWELLING UNIT - Any part of a structure which, through sale or lease, is intended for human habitation, including single-family and multifamily housing, condominiums, apartments and time-share units. For the full town code anyone can read it - see the Town of

Bethel website at www.bethelmaine.org

At the Monday meeting comments were of two basic groupings: Is charging for units whether occupied or not fair and affordable? Is charging by volume of water used during a billing period a better approach? Commenters seemed to opt for the latter method.

About the 2014 Winterfest: Robin Zinchuk attended the meeting to find where the town stood on supporting Winterfest coming up. There are two activities looking for a place to be held without paying an exorbitant insurance cost. One is sliding and the other is skating. At this point the use of Bethel Airport property seems out.

The question I have is can Angevine Park be

PET OF THE WEEK:

Hi! I'm Bonkers

I'm just a little bit on the shy side, but that doesn't stop me from checking out visitors. I will weave around their legs and jump up on the window sill to get a closer look. I'm not too keen on being picked up, but not all cats are. I'd enjoy living in a home where there is plenty to explore and activities that I can get into the middle of.

Responsible Pet Care of Oxford Hills is a no-kill, non-profit shelter and adoption center for cats and dogs; and the holding area for stray dogs for 12 towns in Oxford County. The shelter has moved to a new location at 9 Swallow Road in Paris.

Anyone interested in adopting a pet from RPC can visit the shelter Tuesday-Sunday 12-4 p.m. Most of the adoptable pets and the adoption application can be found online on the shelter's website at www.rpc.petfinder.com.

For answers to questions about adopting or fostering a pet, or to make an inquiry about a lost animal, call Responsible Pet Care after noon at 743-8679.

RIVER CLEANUP -Telstar High School students have been helping to keep some of the natural resources around Bethel as beautiful as possible by participating in river clean ups each year. In order for a Telstar High School student to graduate and receive a diploma, each student has to complete 60 hours of community service. This year 12 students chose to be involved in helping to clean up the Little Androscoggin River from West Paris to Snow Falls. The event took place Oct. 10 and students along with Mr. Raymond and Mr. Keane, pulled an amazing amount of rubbish and junk from the river. Of the seven canoes that were used, all of them were mounded over with trash, tires, sleds, vacuum cleaners, rubber rafts, plastic and a host of other debris, removing it forever from the river. Students were amazed of the amount and diversity of the trash they discovered. They helped everyone develop a stewardship for all of the natural resources that surround the greater Bethel region. Pictured here are Katie Merrill and Ellie Conrad.

used for skating? We used to skate at the Bethel Inn beach house when Songo Pond was frozen. The other question might be: does the Bingham land have a reasonable potential for sliding? Certainly the now unused roads to the site of the water reservoir are steep enough for good sliding after some clearing and widening.

Bethel

By NANCY BROWN

I was saddened to hear of the death of Rev. Earl Bell on Oct. 10. I knew Rev. Bell from my work at the Norway Memorial Library, but many others in this area knew him from his ministries at the Deering United Methodist Church in South Paris and most recently at the West Bethel Union Church. Rev.

Bell retired in 2007 and he and his wife, Marilyn, moved to Medina, N.Y. He is survived by his wife and three children. A memorial service was held for Rev. Bell on Oct. 15 at the Medina United Methodist Church. Condolence messages can be sent to the online register book of the Bates & Tuttle Funeral Home at www.batestuttle.com.

My mother, Musa Brown, and I visited Gene Descoiteau and Dennis Hayden, former Bethel residents, in Kennebunk on Sunday, Oct. 20. We had a farewell lunch with them at David's KPT Restaurant at The Boathouse Hotel in Kennebunkport. Gene and Dennis are moving to Rome, Italy, in November.

When we drove through Bryant Pond on Sunday evening we noticed that the Christmas tree on the town square had its lights burning. Even if it was just a test of the lights, it is a sure sign that it is time to start holiday preparations even though foliage is still brilliant in many places and petunias and dahlias are still blooming. Our Christmas cacti have buds and my mother has begun the process of "forcing" her poinsettia to bloom in time for Christmas. Poinsettias are natives of Mexico. When I lived in Los Angeles, my neighbor had them beside her front door. They were tall rangy plants with pale green leaves, nothing like the Christmas poinsettias we have here. Christmas poinsettias are greenhouse grown and are forced to bloom at Christmas by being kept in darkness 12 hours each day. Starting Oct. 1, my mother places her poinsettia in a cool spot under a card table draped with heavy blankets for 12 hours each night. In the morning she puts the plant in bright sunshine. By Christmas the plant will be fully blossomed. In the spring the plant is cut back and by October will be a foot and a half tall with vibrant green leaves. The current Christmas poinsettia has blossomed for the past six years.

Locke's Mills

By BETSEY FOSTER

Code Enforcement Officer Joelle Corey-Whitman recently presented photographs of the Grover dump site on Rowe Hill Road to the Greenwood Selectmen. They decided little progress had been made, and the photos will be sent to the Town's attorney who will then send them on to the court.

The new town office on the Gore Road is the focus of most everything else. The move will take place Nov. 7 through 11 (closed all those days), and our fire department and highway crew will be doing the moving. As Town Manager Kim Sparks said, "It is good that we don't need to move everything in one fell swoop. We can go back and forth to get some things as we need them." It helps when the move is just around the corner.

The only catch is that the furnace from the current Bird Hill town office has already been moved to the new one. That leaves the old one without heat. And Kim and Angie are still working in there until Nov. 6. Bit nippy I imagine. Sparks has brought in a small electric heater from home to keep the edge off the office. Any contractors out there who will loan a stronger heater to them for a couple weeks?

The old chalk boards in the current town office will become part of the new one. For those who don't know, the current town office was originally a school and the chalkboards were part of it. They will be put up in the meeting at the new office. Something new; something old. Nice touch.

At this time, the Selectmen have not decided what will become of the old town office/schoolhouse.

There will be a public supper Saturday, Oct. 26, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Legion Hall on the Gore Road. This will benefit the Woodstock Fire Dept. Since the new town office is right beside the Legion Hall, you can get supper and check out the new place.

Good wishes for a smooth recovery to Blaine Mills. He is sporting a new knee. And good thoughts to the other Greenwood people who are dealing with illnesses.

small fish. The Canada geese are turning tail-to-the-sky as they forage for plants in the shallow areas of the ponds. And, one of our resident bald eagles has taken to sitting on a rock in Twitchell Pond right along the Greenwood Road. Still plenty of water-fowl activity to see.

Most of the trees have lost their leaves now. While it is rather sad to see the color go, take a close look at those bare branches. They have tightly closed little buds where this year's leaves have fallen to the ground. The cycle of life is moving forward even while we mourn the passing color. Life goes on with enthusiasm. Thank heavens.

Gilead

By LIN CHAPMAN

It is really beginning to seem a lot like fall. A lot of the trees have lost their pretty leaves and the birds are coming to the feeder more. I have seen several sparrows, Juncos and a Red-Breasted Nuthatch. Mr. Cardinal appeared one day last week and spent some time on the porch railing picking through the sunflower seeds with our little chipmunk. She did not mind sharing with him, but will chase away some other birds and definitely the other chipmunk that stops by for food.

My brother, Steve McLain, has been busy getting some work done around his house before the really cold weather sets in.

Lise McLain won a handmade scarf and handmade jewelry when she attended the Seniors Plus workshop at Sunday River Summit Hotel on Oct. 4.

Gilead Historical Society The sign on the corner lot is getting quite a few compliments. It has been Lise McLain made a recent donation to the GHS. She found some information about George D. Daniels and sent away for a copy of a confirmation of his appointment and commission as a Trial Justice that was dated July 20, 1949. We plan on framing the paper and hanging it beside the Trial Justice sign that was recently donated to the GHS by the Daniels family.

Lise also donated a copy of the State of Maine, Fifty-Seventh Legislature, 1878. This packet contains the list of the members of the Senate with their district and the House of Representatives members listed by county. The County of Oxford lists Jedediah G. Lary for Gilead, which is a name that appears frequently in Gilead records from the past.

We have also been receiving some very well appreciated monetary donations from several people. Not only those who just stop by to look at the buildings, but from the members of families who used to live in Gilead.

Judith Grover tent 17 DUVCW met Monday, Oct. 14 at the Grange Hall with eight members present. It was reported that Elsie and Alice had finished the reports and they are ready to be sent to National. The November meeting will be Nov. 11. Please bring your items for Togs at that meeting, either for the gift shop or for the patients.

Vicky said she walked the Civil War trail in Boston recently and it was very interesting. Twenty-five calls were made. Helen Cary received the Mystery Package. Candy was brought to give the Veterans Home to hand out. The November meeting is the first nomination of officers.

Whitman Memorial Library will hold their monthly program today (Oct. 24) at 2 p.m. The program is called "Bear Walker of the North Woods," by Dr. Lynn Rogers, the head of the North American Bear Center. The video is life of bears in all four seasons, presented by Sarah Wright. The public is invited at no charge. Light refreshments will be served.

Each Thursday from 9 to 10 a.m. is exercise class at the Whitman Memorial Library. This is led by Nancy Willard. On Saturday, Oct. 26, there will be a benefit supper for the Woodstock Fire Department at the American Legion Hall in Locke's Mills. Time: 5 to 7 p.m. Price: $8 for adults, $5 for children 12 and under. Menu: Beans, hot-dogs, spaghetti, chili, casseroles, chowders, salads, rolls, desserts, coffee and punch. Come support your fire department.

Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:15, Morning Worship at 10:30, Evening Service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening at 6:30 is Mid-Week Service. Oct. 26, the ladies are going on a shopping trip to North Conway, N.H. Sunday, Oct. 13 was Youth Night and they did an excellent job playing the organ, piano and flute and singing. Matthew did a nice job with his short sermon.

On Sunday, Oct. 13, guests at the Hoyts were David and Pam Benson from Connecticut, Marybeth Hoover and cat, Rufus, were weekend guests.

brought in meals, baked goods and fruit baskets and those who sent cards and prayed for her during her recent surgery. Barbara says she is making good progress, but she is more or less confined to the house and would enjoy visitors. Barbara is missed at the Food Pantry where she volunteers each Tuesday morning.

The kitchen and dining room at the CEB have been very busy over the last few days with several events of local interests. The Sno-Valley Snow Goers had a very successful Land Owners Appreciation/Public Supper on Saturday night with Dick Merrill as chief cook. On Sunday, the Oxford-Union Association of the United Church of Christ gathered for their semi-annual meeting and a pot luck supper. On Monday afternoon family and friends of Fay Milligan gathered for refreshment and fellowship following a graveside service at the West Ellis Cemetery. Tuesday, the People in Action Committee put on a free lunch of soup, sandwich and dessert. This will be the last free lunch of 2013 due to the upcoming holiday season. Lunches will resume in 2014. Special thanks go to Betsey White and Carolyn Merrill for their excellent help in all of these activities, any and all other cooks, bakers and helpers. We couldn't do these things without you.

On Nov. 5, Election Day, there will be a pot-luck supper at the First Congregational Church dining room. Wear your hunter orange and be eligible for the door prize which is a lovely afghan made by Gail Weston.

On Nov. 17, there will be a Hymn Sing at the First Congregational Church to benefit the Food Pantry. Come enjoy singing and the great piano playing of Linda Dyer. There will be a free will offering and/or bring canned goods to help stock the pantry shelves.

Hanover

By MARIA HOLLOWAY
Your participation is needed at Hanover's Annual Town Meeting scheduled for next Tuesday, Oct. 29 at 6 p.m. at the Town House on the Howard Pond Road.

The Annual Town Report is now available. Please stop by the Town Office hours to pick up your copy.

The Select Board met last week to discuss replacing the ramp to Town Hall. More details to follow soon.

Town Clerk, Clem Worcester is back to work. Welcome back, Clem.

Just a reminder that Town Office hours are as follows:

Monday: 5 to 6:30 p.m.
Tuesday: 8 a.m. to 12 noon
Wednesday: 2 to 5 p.m.
Thursday: 5 to 8 p.m.
Friday: 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Howard Pond Happenings

Frank Morrison and Dimitri Handanos have completed repairs on the dam at Howard Pond. The gate is now open to lower the water level for the winter months. This is a great time to repair your docks, mark those pesky rocks, and observe the interesting landscape.

Bob Susbury of Log Hollow has completed and submitted his final Howard Pond water test for the season. This is Bob's 39th year working at Howard Pond as a member of the Maine Volunteer Lake Monitoring Program. Established in 1971, the VLMP's 1,000+ volunteers monitor more than 500 lakes throughout the State. The organization provides the State of Maine, Department of Environmental Protection with data about water quality, watershed health, and information on invasive aquatic plants and animals. According to the most recent VLMP annual report, Howard Pond is below the State average for algal concentrates. Thank you, Bob, for your 39 years of dedicated service to this important program.

The Children's Garden located at the intersection of Howard Pond Road and Mill Hill Road has been put to bed. Many thanks to Lynne Ramsey and Paulette Booth for their hard work.

The leaves are falling and the days are getting shorter but take time to enjoy Hanover's dramatic autumn skies, beautiful sunsets, and broad mountain views.

The State Line Snow Mobile Club will meet Saturday, Nov. 2, 9 a.m. at the Upton House. This meeting will be their annual election meeting. Please attend the meeting to show your support to the club and to vote.

The Upton Planning Board will meet Friday, Oct. 25 at the town office. They will have a workshop, starting at 6:30, and will begin reviewing building applications at 7. The meeting is the last scheduled meeting until February, 2014.

It appears that I was wrong about date for our first snow. If I only miss by a week, I will be as accurate as the T.V. weathermen. Keep dancing.

Albany

By KATHY BENNETT

I have enjoyed a nice peaceful weekend watching the Red Sox win and the Patriots losing to the Jets. That game was very stressful to watch as the Patriots were missing many of their best defensive linemen.

The last week has been very busy with a fifth grade trip to the Gulf of Maine Museum on the waterfront in Portland where we all learned more about our environment, life cycles of various sea creatures, weather, fishing industry and how they all work together. Grandparents' day was on Friday and it was nice to see many people from Albany visiting their little ones. I visited Bella which made her very excited even though I work in the same building. We seldom see each other in school. I also visited Sierra and Jake Carson as their grandmothers are out of state.

Margaret Barton and Jane Wardwell went to the Ogunquit Play House to see the Life of Buddy Holly on Wednesday.

Irene Anderson called me today to tell me she went to Grandparents Day at CPS. I also had a visitor this morning, a beautiful bright red male cardinal. He was very interested in watching the other birds as they fed in the feeders on my porch. He did not come in he joined the Juncos and fed on the ground. I have had a cardinal stop by in the fall for the last several years but they never stick around for long. Have a great week everyone and enjoy these beautiful days as that white stuff is hiding around the corner.

South Woodstock

The Down East Country Music Association will be holding their 10th. Annual Legends/Pioneer Show on Sunday, Nov. 3. This event will be held at the Silver Spur (Route 121), Mechanic Falls. The doors open at 11 and the show starts at 12 noon. The admission will be $7 for adults and $2 per child under 12. This will be a day of paying tribute to our Legends and Pioneers of yesterday, today and tomorrow. The entertainment will be provided by DECMA Legends and Pioneers. A snack bar will be open with all your favorite foods. A 50/50 drawing will be held and there will be a raffle table.

Condolences are going out to the families of Herbert W. Andrews, Leilani Evangeline-Jillson Tice, Diane L. Durrall and Charlotte Cole. Thoughts and prayers with each family.

Get well wishes to Jim Hoyt, Cody (grandson of Stephanie and Don Jackson), B.J. Davis, and to those who are not feeling quite up to par these days.

Seventeen days off, as my singing partner Leroy LeBlanc is spending some time in Florida with his son and grandchildren. I do miss the practices and spending time with the residents and Veterans. We will be back at it on Oct. 30.

My first Cardinal arrived yesterday; she spent most of the day at the feeder enjoying the fruit and nut mixture I combine for them. My hedges are full of red berries, so look forward to more birds spending time here this winter.

There will be a Benefit Public Supper on Saturday, Oct. 26, from 5 to 7 p.m. (to benefit the Woodstock Fire Dept. for equipment).

This will be held at the Locke's Mills American Legion Hall.

The menu will consist of baked beans, chowders, casseroles, spaghetti, assortments of salads, rolls, hot dogs, coffee, punch and desserts. Adults: $8. Children 12 and under: $5. For more information please call Doreen (674-2346) or Devon (890-6531).

Got to cut this short as we've got to make a quick trip to Augusta on business.

That's all from the valley this week.

Y'all have a great week - please remember to get your flu shots.

Waterford

By ROCKIE GRAHAM

This will be short as it may already be too late to file. But here it is.

After much ado about nothing, Lefty finally decided to leave her tree. There are NO leaves on it so she walked around it, walked out to the compost pile and after much squawking and quacking from Gertrude, the two decided to go into their house all on their own. We watched from the shop, afraid to go out lest we distract them and they went back out. As soon as they were in, I shut the door for the night. Then it is out early, on my part, to let them out again. Hopefully they have the idea, now and will go in each night without trouble.

Had a visit yesterday, from Alva Morrison; he is up visiting and working on selling DVD's of his dad's train videos. I believe they are concentrating on 2-gauge ones. I may have that wrong, so do not quote me. In any case it was great to see Alva after all this time. He looks great.

Friday, Oct. 26, 6 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Oct. 27, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m., Bethel Outing club will hold here annual Ski Sale. It is a great time to get skis and snowboards, boots and jackets. It will be at Gould Academy's Field House.

Monday Oct. 28 in Waterford is the start of a new year of Bridge night at the Waterford Library. They meet at 6:30 p.m. All are welcome. Partners not needed.

As promised this is very short. I hope Tatum can get it in time. Have a great week. To send me info, please call 743-0853. I am still not able to answer my cell phone on most rings.

Open Air

By TOM REMINGTON

A warning for hunters, trappers, outdoor enthusiasts Earlier in this news publication I shared an article about a potentially dangerous tapeworm that is being spread across the landscape by wild carnivores. In Maine it is mostly being done by the state's version of wolf/coyote hybrid.

I realize Maine is in the midst or end of bear and moose hunting seasons, but trapping season is about to gear up, deer hunting season is on the doorstep and many people are taking to the fields and streams to peep at some leaves and get in some late summer and early fall hikes. This is perhaps the busiest time for people to be outside and in the forests and fields.

I would like to take a moment to alert readers to precautions they can take that will lessen any chances of contracting Hydatid disease, the result of infections perpetuated by Echinococcus granulosus (E.g.) tapeworm eggs. It is these eggs found in the feces of wild canines that offers the greatest threat to humans in the outdoors. Perhaps I can put it in a perspective that's more easily understood.

It has been estimated that during a 15-year period, the Greater Yellowstone area has probably been blessed with some 2.8 million wolf droppings (1,500-2,000 wolves). Add to that coyotes and other canines and the numbers skyrocket. The short of it is, that in areas where E.g. exists, the landscape is polluted with egg-infested wild canine droppings. Keep this in mind. While unofficial, some estimates put wolf/coyote populations in Maine between 20,000 and 30,000.

Here are my suggestions, and please visit tomremington.com and seek the menu near the top, "Wildlife Diseases" for more information.

These suggestions are mostly geared to hunters and trappers but apply the guidelines to your outdoor activity.

Never disturb wolf/coyote droppings. The E.g. eggs are tiny spores that cling and can become airborne if disturbed. They are viable in heat and cold as well as in water. Handling game should be done with caution: Assume Hydatid cysts are present in all game and on the landscape. Use rubber gloves. Avoid any contact with mouth or eyes and open cuts. Although it is highly unlikely infections can be transmitted to humans by rupturing a cyst, it is possible: Therefore, try to avoid rupturing any cysts. Bear in mind some rupturing may have occurred from gun shot or trauma. Make sure to properly cook any meat before consumption.

Again the odds of ingesting fluid from a ruptured cyst are slim, heat will kill it. Trappers must exercise extreme caution when handling coyotes/foxes/canines. Assume eggs persist on all parts of the animal's fur and mouth/tongue. Wash and sanitize outdoor clothing. Eggs can cling to shoes, boots, clothing, hands, hair, traps, etc. If outdoors with dog, wash dog as soon as possible. You don't know everything your dog has been into while outside. I suggest leaving the dog outdoors. 7. Realize that just a walk in the woods, the fields and forests, they are contaminated with millions of piles of scat. This gets picked up on the feet of animals and humans, gets spread around and is brought home on boots, pants, etc. Birds, flies, butterflies can spread the eggs.

Remember the biggest threat comes from getting the E.g. eggs into your mouth or lungs through breathing. Assume that in the outdoors, the eggs may be everywhere and on anything. Proceed accordingly.

While historically Hydatid disease has not been known to be a problem in the United States, it is in parts of the world where people have dealt with wolves and coyotes for centuries. In Romania, medical reports show that from 1979-1988, 8,557 people contracted Hydatid disease; 516 died.

Please use caution and take steps to reduce threats of infection.

You can find more information on this subject and many others dealing with hunting, fishing, trapping and the outdoors at tomremington.com.

National Drug Take Back Day

Collection Day Protocols

On Oct. 26, 2013, state and local law enforcement agencies will host one or more collection sites at locations of their choosing. Locations should be selected that provide easy access and available parking.

• Controlled, non-controlled, and over the counter substances may be collected.

• This program is anonymous. No questions or requests for identification will be made.

• Participants may dispose of medication in its original container or by removing the medication from its container and disposing of it directly into the disposal box. If an original container is submitted, the individual should be encouraged to remove any identifying information from the prescription label.

• All solid dosage pharmaceutical product and liquids in consumer containers may be accepted. Liquid products, such as cough syrup, should remain sealed in their original container. The depositor should ensure that the cap is tightly sealed to prevent leakage.

• Intra-venous solutions, injectables, and syringes will not be accepted due to potential hazard posed by blood-borne pathogens.

• Illicit substances such as marijuana or methamphetamine are not a part of this initiative and should not be placed in collection containers.

• The Oxford County Sheriff's Office will have two collection sites open Saturday Oct. 26, 2013 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.: Oxford County Sheriff's Office, 26 Western Avenue, South Paris

Brad Hooper seeks votes

Maine singer/songwriter

Brad Hooper of Albany has been selected to compete in the Portland Phoenix Best Music Poll 2013 (Blues category) and is asking his community for their online votes to help him take first-place in this important milestone.

"I have no idea how I made it onto the list, somebody must feel I deserved inclusion," said Hooper, "and I am both pleasantly surprised and deeply honored to have been selected. I have a good shot at winning but will need help from the community."

With over 150 performances so far this year, Hooper has proved both his talent and tenacity as an area performer. Highlights of his 2013 performances include a three-show outdoor concert series in North Plaza at Kendall Square, Cambridge, Mass.; two Maine Blues Festival performances; a Chicago debut at Goose Island Brewery (Wrigleyville); a weekly Sunday brunch show at the Freedom Café in Naples (already booked for Summer of 2014) and an upcoming Nov. 1 radio interview on Localmotives at WMPG, his third live radio interview at WMPG.

Voting is simple and can be done online 24/7. If you have an interest in helping this hard-working Maine singer/songwriter please go to www.bradhooper.net and click the "voting" link (top left) on the home page of his website or go directly to the Portland Phoenix Best Music Poll 2013 at <http://portlandphoenix.bmp.sgizmo.com/s3/#blues>.

"I have always tried to make it on my own, like most of the other hard-working people in Maine, but this could be important and competition is steep. Getting the word out is not as easy as you might think," says Hooper. "I know the community-minded folks 'round here.' They're always there to pitch in when someone from the community needs a hand."

"For nearly 20 years I printed a variety of local newspapers, at the old James Newspaper plant in Norway, and I read about people-helping-people week after week, year after year," he continues, "so I know if I tell people what is going on, I won't have to ask them for their help, help will just arrive," Hooper said.

Hooper has been singing, playing and writing for more than three decades. He lives, plays and writes on a small farm in Albany. He can be seen at a variety of Maine venues throughout the year. To find (or book) an upcoming show or for more information go to <http://bradhooper.net>

Senior College program on managing holiday blues

"It starts with Halloween and ends with Valentine's Day," claim Stephanie LeBlanc, LCSW, and Torrey Harrison, LCSW, Tri-County Mental Health experts, in speaking about holiday blues. They will discuss the topic, "How to Keep the Holidays Happy: Managing the Holiday Blues" at a program to be held on Thursday, Nov. 7, from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at the Bethel Congregational Church, Church Street, Bethel. To Your Health of Western Mountains Senior College (WMSC) is holding this program in response to requests from participants of past To Your Health programs.

Both LeBlanc and Harrison say that the holidays can be a difficult time for many people. They will offer tips on how to recognize and deal with strong emotions and how to avoid the holiday blues. Symptoms that bring on the holiday blues and steps to take to forestall them will also be discussed. Seasonal affective depression (SAD) will also be covered.

Harrison brings a wealth of knowledge and humor to her presentations and is often sought as a presenter in the greater Portland area. A graduate of Smith College School of Social Work, she manages the Tri-County Mental Health Services (TCMHS) clinic in Windham. She has over 20 years of experience providing mental health services to children, youth and adults. Over the past ten years, she has spoken to numerous groups on topics such as Positive Psychology, Understanding ADHD and Autism, Grief and Loss, and Infant Mental Health.

LeBlanc holds a Masters in Social Work from the University of New England and a minor in Psychology. She has been with TCMHS since 2005 serving as the Adult Clinical Services Manager. Her many duties and roles have included clinician, clinical team lead, and quality management team lead. She has specialized in the development of and management of integrated primary care services and the implementation of tele-psychiatry services within the agency. She is a member of the community trauma response team and participates in multiple agency committees. Prior to joining TCMHS, she worked as a residential services clinician for Sweetser, specializing in treatment for juvenile sexual offenders.

The speakers will hold a question and answer period and hand-outs will be available.

The program is sponsored as a community service by To Your Health of WMSC with the collaboration of Bethel Family Health Center and MSAD 44 Continuing Education with special appreciation to Tri County Mental Health Services. The public is invited and admission is free. Light refreshments available.

Further programs in this year's To Your Health series include: "Fat Facts About Your Body Chemistry and What You Can Do About It," on Thursday, Feb. 6, 2014, with Daniel van Buren, MD, Cardiologist; "Spring Into Spring with Colorful Foods," March 6, 2014 with Cathi DiCocca; and "From Sneezes to Kegels: Issues with Urinary-Gyn Health," April 3, 2014, with Cathy Heffernan. All programs are scheduled at the Bethel Congregational Church from 4:30 to 6 p.m. FMI call Rosabelle Tiff at 824-2053.

Maranacook 30, Telstar 0; Oct. 18 - Last Friday night Telstar traveled to Maranacook, and took a mauling from the bulky Black Bears. It was a physical contest and neither team broke off many explosive plays. Telstar, missing their starting quarterback, was slow to start on offense and could not keep any of their drives going during the game. Maranacook attacked hard during their possessions with off tackle runs and the Rebels struggled stopping the play. Two touchdown runs and the accompanying conversions by Maranacook summarized the first half scoring, capped at 16-0. The second half was more of the same for the Rebels offense, while the defense stiffened. The offense was stymied repeatedly while the defense stooped Maranacook on many drives during the third and part of the fourth. The Maranacook offense would eventually tire the Rebels and they tacked on two late touchdowns. These late scores ended the scoring at 30-0 Maranacook. This loss for the Rebels has made the next game, at Sacopee Valley, a must win for the sake of their playoff chances. - Zac Wheeler

High School Boys' JV Soccer

Hall-Dale 1, Telstar 0; Oct. 16 - The THS JV Soccer team played hard against a very good Hall-Dale team losing in a game shortened due to darkness. Liam Gallagher did a nice job stepping up to play goal. Rotating players around and subbing often the team did a great job of communicating, playing hard in unique roles, and experimenting with positions in preparation for play next year. We had many opportunities to score but just couldn't push one past a good Hall-Dale goalie. - Coach Mark Kenney

High School Girls' Varsity Soccer

Carrabec 3, Telstar 0; Oct. 21 - The Lady Rebels closed out the season on Monday, playing a physical, high spirited match against the visiting Carrabec Cobras. The Rebels started slowly, allowing 3 early goals but began to turn things around by the end of the first half. Seniors Jenny Wakefield, Maisie Griffin, Casey Blaszcak, Alyssa Brands, and Jordan Kulig led the Rebel onslaught during the second half dominating play for most of the time. - Coach Remington

High School Girls' JV Soccer

Carrabec 2, Telstar 1; Oct. 21 - Tori Ryerson scored the lone Rebel goal late in the second half and the JV Lady Rebels threatened often but couldn't come up with equalizer. - Coach Remington

Middle School Boys' Soccer

Telstar vs. Dirigo; Oct. 15 - The Middle School Boys soccer team had a great game with a stunning fifteen goals scored against Dirigo! The Rebels played smart and had many great passes to another. Luke Hayward led the Rebels with six goals assisted by Blake Rothwell, Tristan Lilly, Miles Bartlett and Duncan Forbes. Despite Dirigo's loss, they kept a positive attitude and showed great sportsmanship towards the Rebels. - Coach Schwarz

St. Dominic's 3, Telstar 1; Oct. 18 - Although the Middle School Boys lost to St. Dom's in the final game of the season, they did not give it up easily. They showed determination until the last minute and made several exceptional plays. The Rebels managed to match St. Dom's pace the entire game despite having far fewer players to substitute. Great defense by Reese Rosenberg and Blake Rothwell. Goalie Max Godomsky blocked 13 shots on goal. - Coach Schwarz

Middle School Cross Country

Telstar vs. Spruce Mountain and St. Dominic's; Oct. 9 - The TMS cross country team competed in their last race of the season against Spruce Mountain and St. Dominic's. The boys' team won their race. Ben Alford was second with a time of 13:25, Ryan Beckerman was third with a time of 13:25, Sam Weaver was fifth with a time of 15:17, Gaelen Boyle-Wight was seventh with a time of 16:04, and McKinley Braley was eleventh with a time of 18:51. In the girls' race Brooke Carson was third with a time of 16:08, Izzy Chase was fourth with a time of 16:11, Lilo Bean was fifth with a time of 17:15 and Erin Childs was tenth with a time of 20:07.

MAHOOSUC KIDS

Enrichment opportunities for the children in SAD #44

From the Director

October is the month that "Lights On After-school" is celebrated nationwide and MKA is celebrating in all of our sites. Telstar Middle & High School celebrated on October 17th with an ice cream social. Woodstock is celebrating on October 25th with an Activity afternoon of cooking, games, and crafts. Crescent Park is celebrating post Halloween on November 1st with an afternoon of carnival games, cookie decorating, pumpkin decorating and primitive games. The National Afterschool Alliance promotes this event to showcase all the wonderful opportunities that students have in the afterschool hours. MKA has been providing enrichment programs for SAD#44 students since 2001.

MKA recently participated in the BANC volunteer event for Gould and Telstar Students. It was really nice to visit with students that were MKA alumni and show them that they could do community service programs with MKA.

MKA is working with SAD#44 to provide programs for students on the upcoming Flex days for district staff. Parents should contact the school office or MKA for more information.

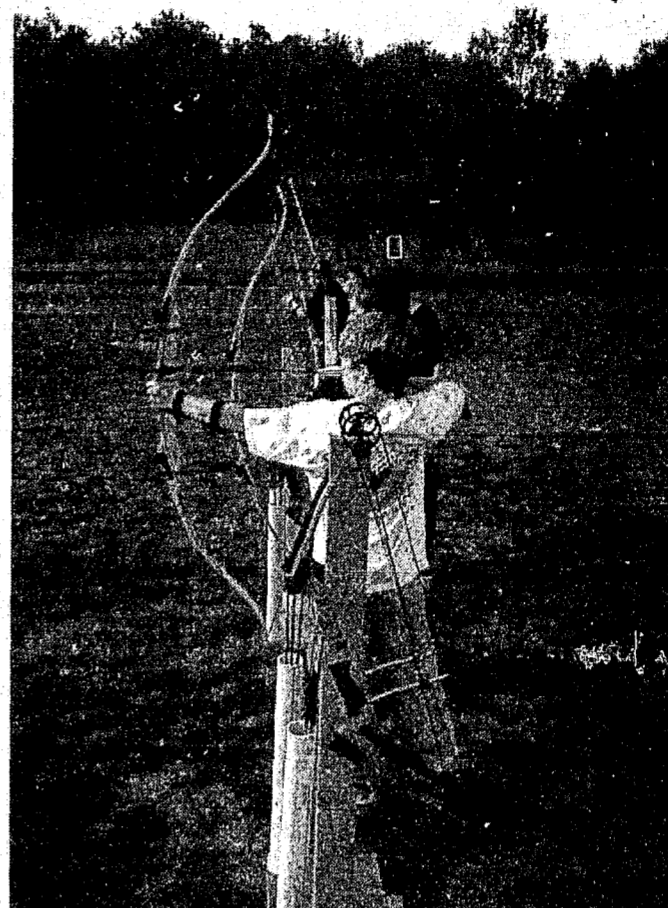

Enjoy the wonderful fall!

MacGregor's art in exhibition

At Montserrat College of Art in Beverly, Mass., Katharine MacGregor of Andover is one of six graduating seniors telling their stories in the upcoming exhibition "Queens: A Senior Thesis Show."

The show includes a new twist on a princess story, a trek across Boston, silhouettes of burned memories, habits and how they are formed, illustrations from inspiring words, and a bond between two people.

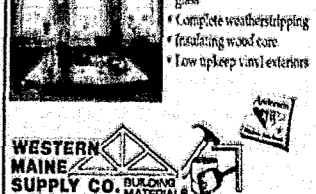

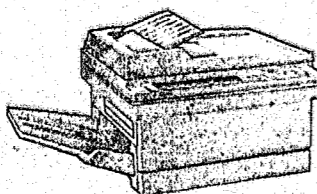

MacGregor is a 2009 graduate of Telstar High School. She is working with silhouettes as a way to show snapshots of memories, hopes, and the shadows in one's life.

With a sense of drama and suspense, she hand cuts paper and burns objects as a way to symbolize the idea that the image is burned into one's mind.

The opening reception takes place Nov. 6, at the 301 Gallery from 5 to 8 p.m.

Obituaries

PETER A. ROSENBERG

Peter Arvid Rosenberg, age 88, born Feb. 26, 1925 in West Paris, passed in his sleep at home on Oct. 22, 2013. He was the son of Arvid and Elizabeth Rosenberg. Peter was a well-known all-around athlete in his youth and was a stand-out pitcher on many championship teams playing American Legion and Town Team baseball for South Paris. Peter attended Gould Academy on a sports scholarship until he enlisted in the Army in his senior year. He was very proud of his service with the 10th Mountain Division, his mountaineering training at Camp Hale, Colo., and his deployment to the Italian Alps. He married Annie Barnett on Feb. 2, 1950. In 1955 they moved to their dream farm on Billings Hill Road in Bryant Pond where they raised their five children. Peter and Annie loved their farm. Peter always had a garden and farm animals, raising most of their food. He loved working in the woods, especially with his horses. Peter was an avid hunter and for over 60 consecutive years he led the annual deer-hunting trip to Northern Maine with other local hunters and his sons. Peter worked on the paper machines in Rumford, retiring in the 1980s with more than 37 years of service. He was a Mason and a lifelong member of the Jefferson Lodge A.F. & A.M. in Bryant Pond, the Kora Shrine and the American Legion, Jackson-Silver Post. He served on the Woodstock School Board during the time that SAD 44 was being organized. Peter was a rugged outdoorsman enjoying ATV and snowmobiling. He was one of the original founders of the Greenstock Snowmobile Club helping to build, maintain and groom many of their original trails. He also volunteered his time in the early days of Maine Handicap Skiing program, using his snow machine to take adaptive skiers to the top of the ski run. Peter shared his love for skiing with his children, starting them on the "big hill" on the farm then at Mt. Abram when it opened in 1960, creating a legacy of Rosenberg skiers at Mt. Abram, where this past winter 26 of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren embodied his passion for skiing.

Peter is survived by his wife Earlene (Enman) Rosenberg. They were married for 20 years. He has three surviving sisters, Rita Riihimaki of New Britain, Conn., Helmi Hamilton of Washington and Annie Mellon of Reading, Mass. His five children and their spouses, Ed and Leslie Rosenberg, Woodstock; Peter Arvid and Carol Rosenberg, Brewer; Donna and Greg Trundy, Woodstock; Tim and Sue Rosenberg, Woodstock; and Mike and Karen Rosenberg, Woodstock; three step sons, Keith and Debbie Hodson, Danville, N.H.; Kim and Kathie Hodson, Belgrade; and Lee Hodson, Ridge Spring, N.C. He loved his 16 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren, and four step-grandchildren. He was predeceased by three siblings, JoAnn Deskins, Jack Rosenberg and Ida Rosenberg.

We are so grateful to his wonderful and loving caregivers, Jannine Buck, Jan Cox, Heather Vail and Rose Bouchard.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, Oct. 26 at 2 p.m. at Chandler Funeral Homes & Cremation Service, 64 Andrews Road, Bryant Pond. Friends and Family may attend visitation on Friday evening from 6 to 8 p.m. at the funeral home. Interment will follow at Lakeside Cemetery, Bryant Pond. There will be a gathering for family and friends at the family farm on Billings Hill Road, Bryant Pond following the burial.

In lieu of flowers you may wish to make a donation in Peter's name to the Alzheimer's Association or the Finnish Heritage Society, PO Box 294 West Paris, Maine.

CAROL A. PARKER

Carol Ann Parker, 67, of Phippsburg, passed away on Oct. 15, 2013 at Mercy Hospital following a long battle with cancer. She died surrounded by family and friends. Carol was the daughter of the late Henry and Mary Levine. She was born in Saco on July 8, 1946 and grew up in Auburn, graduating from Edward Little High School, Class of 1964. Along with her parents, she is predeceased by her husband, Gerry H. Parker, whom she married in 1982. They enjoyed 20 years of marriage and resided in Bethel and Sebasco Estates.

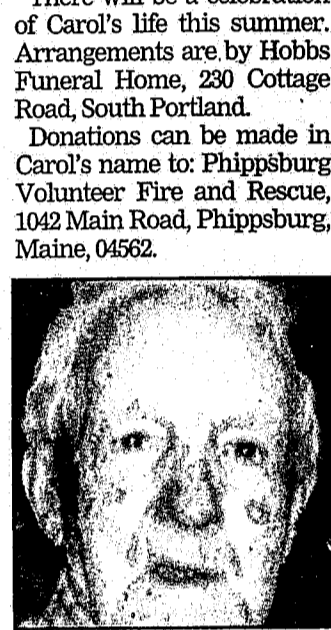

After high school, Carol attended Maine Medical Center's School of Radiology and later worked for their Department of Radiology. In the early 1980s, she owned and operated Royal River Travel Agency in Yarmouth. She then co-owned and ran Cuddledown of Maine for five years with her husband. For the last ten years, she cherished her job as assistant manager at Rock Gardens Inn, Sebasco Estates, where she warmly welcomed guests from near and far.

Carol had many interests and pursued them all with great enthusiasm, especially working in her beautiful gardens, following her passion for the arts, and taking care of her many animals. Carol looked forward to the summertime get-togethers with her extended family for the annual lobster bakes, birthdays, weddings, and holidays. Carol wholeheartedly believed in helping others and in her free time she volunteered for the Maine Handicap Ski Program, Mt. Washington Observatory, and proudly stood with the Flag Ladies in Freeport. Carol loved reconnecting with old friends, and couldn't wait for her upcoming 50th class reunion at Edward Little.

She is survived by her children, Mary Elizabeth (Litty) Parker and husband Martin Heaberlin, Philip Dana Parker and wife Jenny Parker, Julia Gage Parker and husband Daniel Davis; six grandchildren, Benjamin and Mallory Heaberlin, Dana, Grace, and Matthew Parker and Max Davis; and loyal, devoted friend Jerry Clemons.

We are grieved in her passing, but rejoice in our fond memories of her and the love she gave to so many. There will be a celebration of Carol's life this summer. Arrangements are by Hobbs Funeral Home, 230 Cottage Road, South Portland. Donations can be made in Carol's name to: Phippsburg Volunteer Fire and Rescue, 1042 Main Road, Phippsburg, Maine, 04562.

THOMAS C. BRAGG

Thomas Charles Bragg, 92, passed away Sunday, Oct. 20, 2013, surrounded by his loving family and friends at the Hospice House.

He was born Nov. 27, 1920, in Hartford, the third child of Harrison and Mary Ellen (Darrington) Bragg, and attended schools in Buckfield.

On Jan. 3, 1940, he married his loving wife of 69 years Iva Farris Bragg. Tom owned and lived in the same house on Bonney Road in Sumner for over 65 years.

He worked at various jobs: lumberjack, carpenter, heavy equipment operator and was the road commissioner in Sumner for twenty years. Thomas served as sexton for over forty years in Elmwood Cemetery where he mowed the whole cemetery only last week.

He was an active member of the Union Grange and the Congregational Church of East Sumner, serving as Trustee and Deacon.

Thomas thoroughly enjoyed hunting, gardening, making and peddling maple syrup, and fishing. He was always quick to tell stories about his Canadian fishing trip and fishing at Spider Lake. Tom also shot one of the biggest bucks that his sons had ever seen (not weighed but eaten). He was known for his hugs especially to all the grandchildren in his life - 29 grands, 53 greats, and 14 great-greats.

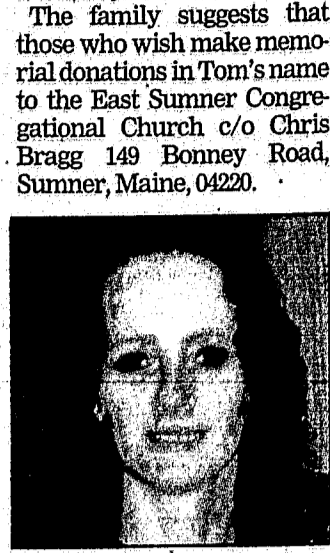

He is survived by eight children: Rosemary Henderson and husband Edison Sr., Helen Jordon, David Bragg and his wife Brenda, Violet Enman and husband Randall, Marie Curtis and husband Albert Sr., Frank Bragg, Christopher Bragg and wife Peggy, Jennifer Clark and husband Robert, and daughter-in-law Lucy Wilcox and husband Glen; many grandchildren, great-grandchildren, great-great-grandchildren, and many nieces and nephews.

He was predeceased by his wife Iva; one brother, Charles Bragg; four sisters, Velma Ellingwood, Grace Keene, Mildred Bragg, Doris Buchanan; one sister-in-law Maxine Pope; six children, James, Beryl Joline, Joyce Verna, Thomas Jr., Edward, and Richard; one son-in-law Wallace Haynes; two grandchildren, Baby Boy Bragg, Amy Bragg and one great grandson, Jared Henderson.

Tom will be sorely missed by his family, friends and acquaintances. Tom's nickname was "Crop," and his wife Iva's nickname was "Maude."

Funeral services will be held at the East Sumner Congregational Church on Thursday, Oct. 24, 2013, at 1 p.m. with Rev. Howard H. MacMullen Jr. officiating. Burial will follow at the Elmwood Cemetery. Arrangements are under the care of Cliff Gray Cremation and Funeral Services, 60 Andrews Road, Bryant Pond.

The family suggests that those who wish make memorial donations in Tom's name to the East Sumner Congregational Church c/o Chris Bragg 149 Bonney Road, Sumner, Maine, 04220.

JANE DANIELS

Thank You!

I would like to extend a big thank you to everyone who sponsored, donated, or attended my fundraiser on Saturday October 12! The fundraiser was held at the Mill Hill Inn and Bethel Inn to help fund the cost of my training and upcoming ski season, which was estimated by the U.S. Ski Team to cost $26,000. The event was a great success towards this projected cost. I am so thankful to come from such a supportive community! I am now getting ready to head overseas to train on snow before the competition season this winter. Thanks so much to everyone who has helped me on my Olympic journey!
